Minnesota Storm Victims: Apply Now for Disaster Assistance

Buffeted by flooding, severe winter storms, snow melt, high winds, rain and ice, 47 counties in Minnesota were declared federal disaster areas. In response to a request by Gov. Arne H. Carlson, 21 counties were declared on April 8, and 26 more were added on April 15-16.

The declaration enabled the Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) and other federal agencies to team up with state and local disaster workers to help flood victims in the designated counties.

"The federal-state partnership allows us to provide victims with easy access to a wide range of disaster recovery assistance," Carlson said.

The aid, to be coordinated at the federal level by FEMA, can include grants to help pay for temporary housing, minor home repairs and other serious disaster-related expenses. Low-interest loans from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) also will be available to cover individual and business property losses that are not fully insured.

FEMA Director James Lee Witt urged those who suffered storm and flood damages, including people with insurance, to sign up promptly for assistance during the application period. FEMA may be able to help with losses that insurance does not cover.

"It's really tough when you see so many people lose the family possessions they have worked all their lives to accumulate," Witt said. "That's really hard on them. But we'll do what we can to help them rebuild and recover."

Witt named John McKay to coordinate the federal relief effort to help victims of the storms.

"We want to help people recover as quickly as possible," McKay said. "We want them to know we are concerned, and we will be there to help them apply for aid."

Important Disaster Recovery Information

Minnesota residents whose homes or personal property sustained damage as a result of storms that began March 21 are urged to begin the application process. Call 1-800-462-9029 from 8 a.m. to 6 p.m., seven days a week. The number to call if you are speech- or hearing-impaired is 1-800-462-7585.

"We want to be sure that everyone who is eligible for disaster assistance understands how easy it is to get help," Federal Coordinating Officer John McKay said. "We encourage all who have suffered damage to call as soon as possible."

Temporary Housing Assistance

FEMA provides three kinds of grants to help home owners and renters whose primary residences are not livable. Funds may pay for alternate rental housing, essential repairs to make the home habitable or help for those facing eviction or foreclosure because of the floods.

Low-Interest Loans

During disasters, the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) provides low-interest long-term loans to home owners, renters and businesses of all sizes that are not fully insured. You can't beat the low interest rates and attractive loan terms.

National Flood Insurance

Disaster victims insured with the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) are eligible to file claims to repair or replace their damaged homes and personal property. Flood insurance to protect against future flood losses can be purchased through your local insurance agent. Call 1-800-427-4661 for information.

President, Governor Pledge Fast, Caring Aid

A Message From

President Bill Clinton

My heart goes out to all residents of Minnesota affected by the severe storms and floods.

This has been an extremely rough year for thousands of Minnesotans. This is not the first time that many of you are repairing damaged roofs, cleaning up debris and trying to preserve your precious keepsakes and belongings. It is hard to do all this and still hold back the tears. Recovery is a slow and painful process.

A primary responsibility of the federal government is to be there when disaster strikes and to stick by people until they can get back on their feet. I directed that residents of Minnesota be eligible to apply for federal disaster assistance by using the toll-free application number listed in this publication. Through the application process, low-interest loans, housing grants, home-repair grants and other aid programs are quickly available.

I assure you that in the weeks and months to come, your government will continue to support you in your efforts to rebuild your lives and communities. We will be with you, along with our state and local government partners, for as long as it takes to help you on the road to recovery.

Our hearts and prayers are with you, and I wish all of the people of Minnesota impacted by the repeated snow and flooding Godspeed in your recovery.

A Message From

Governor Arne H. Carlson

Minnesota is experiencing one of the worst floods in history, on top of one of the harshest winters ever.

While the flooding is not over for some of our citizens, especially those along the Red River, others are beginning the daunting task of cleaning up.

We have not been alone in our efforts to combat the snow and floodwaters. The National Guard; service groups like the Red Cross and Salvation Army; the state departments of Transportation, Public Safety, Commerce, Agriculture, Economic Security, Human Services, Natural Resources, Health, Public Service, Pollution Control, and Trade and Economic Development; local governments; and, most important, volunteers have helped those in flood-stricken areas fight the flood, restore power, reopen roads and help people back into their homes.

More assistance is on the way. As a result of the federal disaster declaration, the Federal Emergency Management Agency and its federal partners are able to offer assistance to the state and its residents to help recover from the floods.

As always, we Minnesotans survive the challenges our climate bestows.

Together we will rebuild our homes and our communities.

Disaster Questions and Answers

Q. What should I do to get help on my disaster losses?

A. Call the toll-free registration number, 1-800-462-9029 (TTY 1-800-462-7585 for hearing- and speech-impaired).

Q. If I have insurance can I still get assistance?

A. Many federal, state, local and volunteer agency programs may help you, but none of these programs will provide help for expenses covered by insurance. Call your insurance company first.

Q. What information do I need to give when I call for assistance?

A. Your name, address of damaged property, insurance information, phone number where you may be reached and description of your losses.

Q. What happens after I apply?

A. A trained inspector will make an appointment to visit your property within a week to 10 days. The inspector verifies the nature of your losses to establish your eligibility for disaster assistance programs.

Q. I registered with the Federal Emergency Management Agency and then I received a disaster loan application from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA). Why did I receive a loan application?

A. For disaster damage to private property owned by individuals, families and businesses that are not fully covered by insurance, the primary form of federal assistance for long-term recovery is a low-interest disaster loan from SBA.

Q. What happens if I can't afford a loan?

A. Even if you believe you cannot afford a loan, you should submit your low-interest loan application to SBA. If SBA determines you are unable to repay a loan, SBA automatically refers you to the state-run grant program. This grant program may provide assistance for needs that cannot be met with loans, housing assistance, insurance or help from other sources.

Out of Work Because of the Disaster?

Your business has been destroyed. Your crops have been damaged. You no longer have a job or income. What do you do?

The federal disaster unemployment assistance program may provide you with a weekly check if you have become unemployed or have suffered loss of income due to the disaster.

The program is designed to help the self-employed, farmers, ranchers and those not normally eligible for unemployment insurance.

What is the first thing I need to do?

Call the state/federal toll-free application number 1-800-462-9029 (TTY 1-800-462-7585 for the speech- and hearing-impaired).

Who will process my application?

Your local unemployment office processes your application, determines your eligibility and disburses checks.

How often are payments made?

Disaster unemployment assistance can provide weekly benefits for up to 26 weeks following the date of the declaration of the disaster.

How do I know if I am eligible for benefits?

You may be if you are:

- out of work as a result of the disaster;
- self employed or a migrant/seasonal worker with income substantially affected by the disaster;
- an employee not covered by any other unemployment compensation;
- a survivor who, as a result of the disaster, becomes head of household.

Is disaster unemployment assistance the only way to get help?

You may be eligible for other disaster assistance programs. To find out, call 1-800-462-9029 (TTY 1-800-462-7585 for the speech- and hearing-impaired).

After the Flood: The First Steps

Although floodwaters may be down in some areas, there are still many dangers. Here are some things to remember in the days ahead.

Roads may still be closed because they have been damaged or are covered by water. Barricades have been placed for your protection. If you come upon a barricade or a flooded road, find another route.

Keep listening to the radio for news about what to do, where to go or places to avoid.

Emergency workers will be assisting people in flooded areas. You can help them by staying off the road and out of the way.

If you must walk or drive in areas that have been flooded, stay on firm ground. Moving water only 6 inches deep can sweep you off your feet.

Beware of standing water, which may be electrically charged from underground or downed power lines.

Flooding may have caused familiar places to change. Floodwaters often erode roads and walkways. Flood debris may include — but hide — animals and broken bottles. It's also slippery. Avoid walking or driving through it.

Play it safe. Additional flooding or flash floods can occur. Listen for local warnings and information. If your car stalls in rapidly rising waters, get out immediately and climb to higher ground.

Report downed power lines and broken gas lines immediately.

Beware of overexertion and exhaustion. Set priorities and pace yourself.

A Good Time to Think about Flood Insurance

As many Minnesota residents found out in the aftermath of the storms and flooding of this winter and spring, home owner policies do not cover damage from rising waters. But those who do not have flood insurance can take steps now to protect themselves against future flood losses.

Flood insurance backed by the federal government is available to any home owner, renter or business owner whose property is in a community that participates in the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP).

In order to participate, the community must adopt and enforce local floodplain management ordinances designed to reduce the risk of future flood losses.

If you live in such a community, you can purchase flood insurance from any licensed insurance agent or company — the same one, for example, who handles your home owner or automobile insurance.

Premiums vary according to the flood risk your property is exposed to, the amount of coverage you purchase, the deductible you select and the type of building you are insuring.

Nationwide, the average premium is about $300 per year for approximately $98,000 of coverage.

On a single-family home, you may purchase flood insurance coverage up to a maximum of $250,000 on the structure and up to $100,000 on the contents. If you are a business owner, the maximum is $500,000 on the building and another $500,000 on contents. If you are a renter, you can purchase up to $100,000 coverage for personal belongings.

Some people resist buying flood insurance in the mistaken belief that if flooding occurs, the government will bail them out. Federal disaster assistance is available only if a flood (or other disaster) is so large and widespread it warrants a major disaster declaration from the president. More than 90 percent of disasters are not presidentially declared.

And even for floods that are declared major disasters, the aid available is limited.

Even if your neighborhood is not in a floodplain, flood insurance is advisable.

There is a 30-day waiting period before new policies take effect, so don't delay.

For more information, contact your local insurance agent or company or call the NFIP toll-free number, 1-800-427-4661.

Filing a Flood Insurance Claim

If you have flood insurance, start by calling your insurance agent to report your claim. The agent will prepare a "notice of loss" form and will assign an adjuster to assist you.

If possible, photograph the outside and inside of the structure, showing the flooding, damage and height of the water.

Separate damaged from undamaged property and put damaged things in the best possible order for the adjuster's examination.

Dispose of damaged property which presents a health hazard or which may hamper local clean-up operations. Be sure to describe adequately all discarded items so that, when the adjuster examines your losses and your records, these articles are included.

Compile a room-by-room inventory of missing or damaged goods. Include manufacturers' names, dates and places of purchases, and prices. Try to locate receipts or proofs of purchase for major items.

Good records speed up settlement of your claim.

Added NFIP Coverage Available Soon

People with flood insurance underwritten by the National Flood Insurance Program (NFIP) can soon get some help with the extra cost of rebuilding or altering flood-damaged structures to comply with state or local floodplain management ordinances.

Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) officials will allow every property owner who purchases or renews a flood insurance policy after June 1, 1997 to receive $15,000 coverage to help pay for elevating, flood-proofing, demolishing or relocating a structure that has been substantially or repetitively damaged by flooding.

The cost for the additional coverage is $75.

This coverage, which was mandated by the National Flood Insurance Reform Act of 1994, applies only if the community is enforcing a substantial-damage or repetitive-loss in its floodplain management ordinance that requires action by the property owner.

FEMA recognizes that $15,000 generally will not be sufficient to pay all costs to bring a structure into compliance with state and local laws and ordinances. However, the increased value of the property should offset at least some of the cost.

Damage: Flash Floods

Nearly half of all flash flood fatalities are automobile-related.

Water weighs 62.4 lbs. per cubic foot and typically flows downstream at 6 to 12 miles an hour.

When a vehicle stalls in the water, the water's momentum is transferred to the car. For each foot the water rises, 500 lbs. of rapid force are applied to the car.

But the biggest factor is buoyancy. For each foot the water rises up the side of the car, the car displaces 1,500 lbs. of water. In effect the car weighs 1,500 lbs. less for each foot the water rises.

Two feet of water will carry away most automobiles.

Don't Delay . . .

Cleaning Up and Drying Out Your Home

If your house or its understructure has been under water from the recent flooding, you need to take steps to kill bacteria and dry out the building thoroughly.

It is important to disinfect all surfaces that were wet from floodwaters. Mold and mildew can develop from bacteria carried in floodwaters and infest your home. This could cause those living in the home to become ill, even long after the building has been repaired.

Following are steps you need to take to dry out your house.

- Turn off the main power.
- Open doors and windows to allow moist air to escape.
- Remove all wet furniture, contents and carpets or rugs. If you decide to keep some of these items, they must be cleaned and disinfected.
- Discard all contaminated food products.
- Dry out interior walls. If they are plaster, drain any water in them by removing the baseboard trim and drilling holes about 2 inches above the floor. Flood-soaked sections of wallboard usually will have to be removed and thrown away. Paneled walls usually can be dried out by prying out the bottom corner of the paneling and propping it away from the wall studs.

- Clean exterior walls. Remove any flood-soaked insulation as soon as possible. It will hold moisture and bacteria and keep other building materials from drying out properly. Batt insulation and blown-in insulation cannot be reused. It must be thrown away. Rigid foam insulation can be removed and disinfected. Once it is completely dry, it can be reinstalled. Once insulation is removed, the wall must be disinfected and thoroughly dried. Dehumidifiers and portable heaters can speed the process.

- If floodwaters got into your floor framing but not into your house, check for wet floor insulation. Wet floor insulation must be removed and the framing disinfected and dried in the same manner as the walls.

- Disinfect all surfaces that were soaked by floodwaters. Use "disinfecting" or "sanitizing" products or use a mixture of one-fourth cup of chlorine bleach mixed into one gallon of water.

In repairing and rebuilding, consider using water-resistant or waterproof materials. Instead of regular wallboard or plaster, use the water-resistant or waterproof kind. Install wallboard horizontally and use screws for easy removal in case of future flooding. Use rigid foam insulation instead of batt or blown-in insulation. Use galvanized or stainless steel hardware. Use indoor-outdoor carpeting. Use exterior grade plywood for reconstructing sub-floors.

Mud, Mildew? How to Get Rid of It

Mud in your house and car, and mildew on your walls can be challenging when trying to clean up and get your life back to normal.

Mud May Pose Hazards

The mud left behind by floodwaters may contain health hazards. It is important to get rid of this mud as soon as possible and to use care when doing so. Protect your eyes, mouth and hands. Wear rubber gloves, and if possible, a face mask when cleaning. Use soap containing disinfectants to wash your hands when you are done.

Solving Mildew Problems

With sunny weather and gentle breezes, mildew problems slowly begin to abate. However, high humidity may contribute to persistent mildew which will require aggressive cleaning. A solution of one part household bleach and four parts water will kill surface mildew and, if used as part of a regular maintenance program, will prevent mildew from returning.

A Word of Caution

When using household cleaners, disinfectants and bleach, always follow the manufacturer's directions. Be sure to read the labels and be aware of any caution or danger warnings. Never mix household bleach with other cleaning agents.

- Advise you on how to protect against future losses.
- Use your suggestions to improve our service.

Use Care When Hiring Contractors

If you were affected by the recent storms and flooding, you should be aware that some unscrupulous contractors may try to take advantage of you.

"If you have disaster-related damages, I urge you to be very careful when contracting for repairs," Federal Coordinating Officer John McKay said.

"Be especially alert for door-to-door solicitors who ask for large cash deposits or entire payments in advance," State Coordinating Officer James Franklin said. "Often the work is never performed or the down payment is never returned."

Franklin cautioned victims not to sign contracts or make down payments without first receiving written estimates from contractors, and to avoid offers which seem too good to refuse. He also advised people to ask for references and to check with relatives or friends before deciding which contractor to choose.

Franklin suggested that disaster victims call the Minnesota Attorney General's Consumer Protection Office (1-800-657-3787) if they have concerns about people representing themselves as contractors.

"You should remember that federal workers and federal contract workers do not charge victims for their services. If someone posing as a federal employee or federal contractor attempts to collect money for their help, report the person and their vehicle license number to your local police department," McKay said.

Make sure disaster aid goes to those who deserve it.

SBA low-interest loans to help you recover . . .

Not Just for Small Businesses

Low-interest loans from the U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) are the primary form of federal assistance for long-term recovery for home owners and renters, as well as businesses of all sizes. These SBA loans fund repairs of damages to private property that is not fully covered by insurance. By making affordable loans, the SBA disaster program helps disaster victims pay for repairs while keeping costs to the taxpayer reasonable.

SBA disaster loans of up to $200,000 are available to home owners for real estate repairs, and up to $40,000 for replacement of disaster-damaged personal property. Renters may borrow up to $40,000 to replace disaster-damaged personal property.

SBA analyzes the income and debts of a home owner or renter and if SBA determines the disaster victim cannot afford an SBA disaster loan, SBA may automatically refer the applicant to the Individual and Family Grant Program.

Businesses of all sizes and private nonprofit organizations may apply for low-interest disaster loans from the SBA to repair or replace disaster-damaged real estate, machinery and equipment, inventory and other business assets. Loans up to $1.5 million are available for losses not fully covered by insurance.

For small businesses only, SBA makes Economic Injury Disaster Loans (EIDLs) to provide working capital to pay necessary obligations until operations return to normal after the disaster. These working capital loans are available to businesses financially impacted by the disaster, even if they had no property damage. Small businesses located in counties contiguous to the declared counties also may apply for these economic injury loans.

If you need assistance in completing your loan application, you can get help from an SBA representative at a disaster recovery center.

Disaster assistance benefits will not affect your eligibility for Social Security, welfare, food stamps or other federal benefits.

Personal Inspections of Your Home Ensure the Right Kind of Help for You

Damage inspectors will schedule appointments to visit people who have applied for disaster assistance. If your home has been damaged, one or more inspectors may visit.

A FEMA inspector schedules an appointment to verify losses after you apply for disaster assistance through the toll free registration line: 1-800-462-9029 (1-800-462-7585 for speech and hearing impaired).

If you apply for U.S. Small Business Administration (SBA) low-interest loan, SBA will send a loss verifier.

The American Red Cross sends loss verifiers if you apply for Red Cross assistance.

Local building and safety inspectors may be sent to see if damaged buildings are safe to enter.

All inspectors and verifiers carry official photo identification. If an inspector or verifier is not wearing an identification card or badge, ask to see it.

When you apply, you will be asked to prominently display your street address on the front of your house. This will help inspectors find your dwelling.

Beware of Debris as Cleanup Begins

The debris left behind by flooding may be a source of injury or illness. Be careful when cleaning damaged structures or handling debris. Here are some safety tips:

- Always wear gloves and work boots
- Separate hazardous materials from other debris
- Always wash your hands after cleanup
- Treat electrical lines and outlets with extreme care. Don't assume power is off.

The Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) advises everyone to use extreme caution when returning to areas damaged by the recent floods.

Potential chemical hazards may be encountered during the repair and recovery efforts. The flooding may have moved containers of hazardous solvents or industrial chemicals from their normal storage places.

Do not try to remove any propane tanks. These represent a real danger of fire or explosion and EPA urges you to call the police or fire department to report locations of tanks.
